

KANIKA TOLVER

Kanika Tolver is no ordinary “social-preneur.” This former highly decorated Federal government employee turned rebel entrepreneur and Certified Professional Coach is a serial innovator who’s fueled by an extraordinary commitment to social change and to helping others create their own “epic lives.”

As an in-demand career coach who’s often tapped as an expert source for the media, Tolver helps individuals establish themselves as the “architect of their own life” to realize career success. Kanika has successfully coached government professionals, women in technology and minorities in technology.

Her programs provide professionals guidance on how to brand, market and sell their career brands’. Kanika loves empowering her attendees with tactical methodologies that include: resume writing, job search strategies, professional networking and salary negotiation.

TESTIMONIAL:

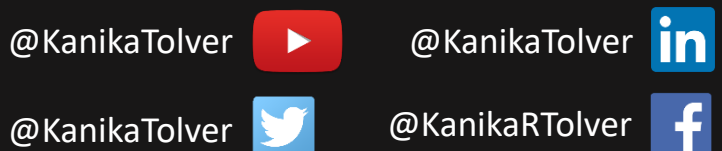

"Kanika Tolver is an extraordinary speaker, author and career coach. She always educates and enlightens our students on how to prepare for life after college. Not to mention, Kanika successfully coached a few students into their first professional jobs immediately after graduation. Her speaking approach is real and raw!"
